TEXAS OIL SHUTDOWN ORDERED

PLANNED TRAIN WRECK KILLS TWENTY

Crack Southern Pacific Streamliner Was Victim of Deliberate Sabotage

RENO, Nev. Aug. 14.—(AP)—The fiendishly-plotted wrecking a $2,000,000 streamliner train left at least 20 persons dead and 114 injured today, while police sought a man "with both ears off" for questioning about the tragedy

Southern Pacific officials said evidence clearly indicated the wreck of their crack west-bound "City of San Francisco" in the desert wastes of central Nevada Saturday night was deliberately planned. A coroner's jury summoned to the scene yesterday found the disaster was caused by "a misplaced rail, misplaced by a person or persons unknown."

Forty-four spikes had been removed from the outside rail of a curve near the approach to a 60-foot bridge over the shallow Humbolt river, where all but four of the 17 cars in the yellow-tan flier hurled off the tracks.

Angle plates connecting rail lengths had been removed. An entire 30-foot length of rail had been moved four inches inward and the tail tie plates respiked to the ties in the new position, said T. J. Foley of Ogden, Utah, assistant Southern Pacific division superintendent.

As this evidence of what Foley termed "clearly a case of sabotage with murderous intent" was uncovered, Nevada state police asked officers to be on the lookout for a man whose ears had been cut off.

Chief of Police [illegible] Wellver of Reno said he was informed this man had been "acting suspiciously" at Fernley, and had inquired yesterday morning at a Fernley garage, "Has anything happened?"

Train Speeding Westward.

The streamliner, speeding westward at 50 to 60 miles an hour, piled up at 10:33 p. m. (MST) (12:33 CST) about 250 miles east of Reno, as it was crossing a 60-foot bridge over shallow Humboldt river.

The diesel-power cars on the crack limited, which was on its regularly scheduled 39 1-2-hour run from Chicago to San Francisco, were carried across the steel bridge by their own momentum, but the derailed baggage car lurched out of control and dragged most of the other cars in a wild topple from the tracks.

Some of the cars crashed into the bridge, causing it to collapse into the river 15 to 20 feet below. Six of the cars crashed after it in a deafening roar followed by the errie cries of the dying and injured which sent those able to move into a desperate rescue search.

Out of the ghastly scene, where twisted bodies were trapped in the more horribly smashed cars and where many of the injured lay helpless beside the wreckage, arose tales of heroism on the part of several and stout courage and lack of panic on the part of all survivors.

FIVE MEN HELD.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Five men were held here today by police for questioning in connection with the wreck of the streamliner "City of San Francisco" near Carlin, Nev.

Salt Lake City officers took the men from an eastbound freight train at the request of Wells, Nev., police.

Four of the men were released. Police refused to say on what grounds the fifth was being detained.

FOURTEEN PERSONS KILLED IN CRASH OF CLIPPER SUNDAY

ONLY TWO SURVIVED MISHAP AT RIO DE JANERIO IN SIGHT AIRPORT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The crushed wreckage of a Pan American "baby clipper" was believed today to hold the answer to an unexplained crash in which 14 persons were killed yesterday almost within a stone's throw of their destination at the end of a 3,700 mile flight.

Six Americans died in the wreck, among them Professor James Harvey Rogers of Yale, an eminent economist and a familiar figure in Washington in the early days of the new deal. Three Americans were crew members.

Only two of the 16 occupants of the two-motored ship survived.

Two persons who saw the crash as the plane nosed down toward its landing at the end of a flight from Miami, Fla., said it seemed suddenly to slant sharply down and strike a crane on a drydock in the harbor.

The plane broke in two. Half of it fell ashore, and the other half plunged into the water.

The steel drydock, on Ilha Das Cobras (Cobra Island), is about 23 feet high and about 1,100 feet from the airport.

Pan American announced the following died:

Prof. James Harvey Rogers, Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

Henrie May Eddy, Gainesville, Fla., acting librarian at the University of Florida.

Robert Landman, 195 Broadway, New York City.

Pablo Levin, an Argentine.

Two Injured In Marlin Rooming House Fire Today

MARLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Two persons were hurt and 12 others forced to flee in their night clothing when fire destroyed a large rooming house and an adjoining lumber yard here early today.

Clois Stone, employed in the county AAA office, was burned about the head, right shoulder and right hand.

Mrs. R. R. Anderson of Seguin, Texas, was burned about the head, when she was overcome by smoke. She was rescued by Wilkin Spencer, son of the proprietor of the rooming house.

The blaze was discovered by Billy Spencer, 15, grandson of Mrs. Tom Spencer, owner of the house, about 3 a. m.

Firemen battled three hours but were unable to confine the fire to the rooming house.

Estimated loss was $50,000.

TWO ADDITIONAL INDICTMENTS BY U. S. GRAND JURY

USING MAILS TO DEFRAUD AND DIVERSION WPA LABOR, MATERIALS CHARGED

NEW OLEANS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—O. John Rogge, assistant United States attorney general in charge of widespread federal investigations in Louisiana, said today he had received two threatening letters containing two .38 calibre revolver shells and a death threat.

Both letters were anonymous. One of them, containing the bullets, was mailed in the federal building, where Rogge's office is located.

"You will die before Wednesday if you dont' get out of this city," the letter stated. "We just paid $18,000 for your death."

Rogge immediately turned both letters over to the federal bureau of investigation, and announced he had cancelled plans to fly to Washington tomorrow for a conference with Attorney General Murphy.

"In view of the threats I'm staying in town," the tall, youthful prosecutor said.

Rogge's announcement was made shortly after the grand jury had indicted two more former State University employees.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—George Caldwell, former construction superintendent of Louisiana State University, was indicted by a federal grand jury here today on two charges of using the mails to defraud in a scheme whereby the university allegedly was mulcted of $16,061.65 through

State Department Formally Demands End of Oil Feud

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, formally demanded today a settlement of the Mexican oil controversy lest it result in "a material barrier" between Mexico and the United States.

Welles, after conferences with Mexican Ambassador Castillo Najera and Donald R. Richberg, attorney for the American oil companies, disclosed at his press conference the state department was the author of recent compromise proposals for a board of directors to operate expropriated American oil properties in Mexico.

He said the department was disappointed these had been turned

Squalus Workers Heartened After Message of Praise

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Heartened by a "well done" from their commander-in-chief, navy salvgaers set about preparing hoisting gear today for a second lifting of the $4,000,000 sunken submarine Squalus which struck a hitherto uncharted mud bank while being towed beneath the surface.

A rolling sea prevented divers from going below yesterday, but it failed to keep President Roosevelt, on a vacation cruise off New England and Canadian waters aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa, from obtaining a first hand account of the herculean task the navy performed Saturday in lifting the submersible with her 26

Half Dozen Young Indiana National Guardsmen Killed

FORT KNOX, Ky., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Six young Indiana national guardsmen were dead today—killed when an artillery shell they thought was a "dud" exploded as they tinkered with it.

Three other guardsmen suffered "flesh wounds."

Maj. Gen. Robert H. Tyndall, commanding the 38th division, 139th field artillery, of which all nine were members, ordered an inquiry. The accident occurred late yesterday on a "company street" of the guard units for annual summer traininng.

The general said the board of inquiry had little to go on because "every man directly connected with the explosion is dead."

Those killed were Corp. Charles E. Handricks, 21, Oakland City; Corp. Roy E. Maxey, 20, Oakland

No action was taken Monday. Judge Miller said there were about 700 insane persons kept in jail last year, many of them aged, and several have been kept in the local bastile. The proposed cells are so constructed that there is a mini-

More Than 80,000 Oil Wells Be Closed Down During Next 15 Days

AUSTIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Shutdown of Texas oil fields for 15 days effective at 7 a. m. tomorrow was ordered today by the State Railroad Commission.

The decision was announced by Chairman Lon A. Smith after a conference with the other commissioners, Ernest O. Thompson, also chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, and Jerry Sadler.

More than 80,000 wells will be affected. There are 87,000 in the state, but certain exceptions will be permitted because of special operating conditions, such as high water production.

The current production of Texas, greatest oil producing state in the union, is about 1,300,000 barrels daily. Shutdowns on Saturdays and Sundays have been in effect for months in effort to keep production in line with consumption.

The action culminated several days of intense study of the situation by the commission, state agency which regulates the oil industry in Texas, following sharp reductions in the price of crude oil made by purchasing companies.

The first price cut was by the Sinclair-Prairie Sompany, a general 20-cent a barrel slash, but Sinclair was quickly followed by many other purchasers.

Storm of Protest.

A storm of protest swept the oil producing states, where income measured in multiple millions of dollars will be affected.

Chairman Thompson of the compact commission has called a meeting of that body to meet in Oklahoma City tomorrow, and governors or their representatives of major oil-producing states of the mid-continent areas have indicated they will attend.

Thompson urged Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel to call a special session of the Texas legislature to levy an additional tax of five cents a barrel on oil which revenue would be used to finance social security, including old age pensions.

He charged the price reductions were wholly unwarranted because oil stocks were the lowest in 12 years and consumption of gasoline was the highest of all time.

He asserted the greed of the price cutters had exceeded all bounds and urged concerted action by the oil producing states to bring about a restoration of the prices.

Special Session Not Favored

Governor O'Daniel in reply expressed disfavor for a special session, saying since the legislature in six and a half month of a general session had levied no taxes, there was no good reason to think it would act in a special meeting.

The three commissioners answered a long series of questions concerning reasons and possible effects of the order.

'This is one price cut that is without justification," Thompson said, with Sadler adding the Texas commission "will not be dictated to by Wall Street."

"I talked to A. S. J. Shaw of the Oklahoma corporation commission by telephone this morning and he stated Oklahoma will go along with us," Chairman Smith said. Under further questioning, Smith said Shaw did not specifically promise a shutdown in Oklahoma.

"We're hopeful other states likewise will shut down," said Thompson. "But regardless of that, we're going ahead. Since Texas is by far the biggest oil producing state we should lead the way."

Chance For Reappraisement

"The 15-day closing," he continued, "will give us a chance to reappraise the whole situation. We have a suspicion that some people

BURFORD FIGHTING ORDER FOR REMOVAL STATE LOUISIANA

RECORDS OFFERED DALLAS FEDERAL COURT TO SHOW ALL OIL LEGALLY RUN

DALLAS, Aug 14.—(AP)—Freeman W. Burford, wealthy Texas independent oil operator fighting an order removing him to Louisiana to face charges of conspiracy to violate the Connally "hot oil" act, testified in federal court today he entered the Louisiana oil market after major companies started a "squeeze game" in the East Texas field.

His attorneys offered numerous records of the Louisiana conservation commission into evidence in their effort to prove before Judge T. W. Davidson that all such oil purchased had been legally produced and transported.

Judge Davidson was simultaneously considering testimony in the removal order and upon a writ of habeas corpus granted the oil man last week. Burford was indicted along with former Governor Richard W. Leche of Louisiana, and Seymour Weiss, New Orleans hotel man. Burford's attorneys had not completed their testimony at the noon recess.

Burford asserted he decided to construct a pipeline to the Rodessa field in Louisiana because "it was hard to get oil in the East Texas field."

"There had been a squeeze game conducted by the major companies, making it nearly prohibitive to get lease connections," he said on the stand.

Sought Only Legal Oil

He added the Standard Oil company of Louisiana was then the only major buying crude in the Rodessa field, and it was buying only about one-half the allowable. Burford testified it was the intention of his company only to buy oil produced in accordance with Louisiana conservation laws, and that a contract with the Pelican Oil and

MANUFACTURERS CHARGED WITH DELIBERATE CAMPAIGN NULLIFY NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS ACT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The senate civil liberties committee said today the National Association of Manufacturers "deliberately organized" a nation-wide campaign "to nullify the administration of the national labor relations act."

A committee report to the secretary of the senate said the association was financed largely by a small group of corporations which "have organized the strategy for a national program of employer opposition to labor unions and to governmental action to improve conditions of labor."

Declaring the organization "has flooded the country" with anti-labor propaganda the committee added:

"Much of this propaganda is intended to influence the public with reference to elections, and officials of the association have boasted that its propaganda has influenced the political opinions of millions of citizens and affected their choice of candidates for federal offices.

"In effect the National Association of Manufacturers is a vehicle for spending corporate funds to influence the opinion of the public in its selection of candidates for office. It may be questioned whether such use of the resources of corporate enterprises does not contravene the well established public policy—forbidding corporations to make contributions in connection with political elections."

The committee, headed by Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis), said it was not yet prepared to submit recommendations for "remedial legislation."

The committee reported that the largest contributor to the association in the 1933-37 period was E. U. Du Pont de Nemours & Company, with $118,600.

O'DANIEL RENEWS HIS ATTACK ON PROFESSIONAL POLITICIANS IN HIS BROADCAST OF SUNDAY

AUSTIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A renewal of his attack on "professional politicians" enlivened Gov. W. Lee O'Daniels' regular Sunday radio broadcast, which was without musical interludes for the fifth time in six weeks.

O'Daniel again urged his listeners to attend county budget hearings starting tomorrow and do their utmost to halt unnecessary governmental spending. Both large and small business, he warned, must be protected against destructive taxation.

"The professional politician, who for his own gain," O'Daniel said, "leads you into governmental bankruptcy in your local government would, if he were supported by sufficient forces in the state and nation, lead the state and nation into bankruptcy. Bankruptcy leads to dictatorship and dictatorship to the loss of government freedom and this to the loss of religious liberty."

The governor mentioned religion frequently and concluded the address with a plea to members of his radio audience to attend church.

He did not touch on the current oil situation.

"The professional politicians would like to have you believe," O'Daniel said, "that government is so complicated the average man cannot understand it and therefore he should leave its operation wholly and entirely to the professional politicians. But we have been doing this in Texas for a long time and what is the result?

"The professional politician would have you believe that a bond is something good to eat, a warrant is a new kind of salad dressing and the deficit is a chocolate-coated ice cream cone—when as a matter of fact all three are exactly the same as the mortgage on your home or business, and these bonds, warrants and

Negroes Downed Sunday Afternoon South of Dawson

DAWSON, Aug. 14.—(Spl.)—A negro and negress were drowned in a tank located on the Millard Moore farm south of town Sunday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock. These two drownings brought the Navarro county accidental drownings of negroes to seven in a four-day period. Four caddies drowned Thursday morning in the Corsicana Country Club lake and a negress drowned near Cheneyboro on Richland creek Thursday afternoon.

J. D. Vance, justice of the peace, conducted an investgiation into the drownings and was advised that four were bathing in the tank. Lucille Armstrong, negress, the judge was advised, could not swim and was being aided by her companions by means of a rope attached to her body. It was reported that the negress experienced trouble in the water and the rope was dropped by one of her companions. Curley Castles, negro, swam to her rescue and Judge Vance said that the frightened negress grabbed Castles and both sank. The two others made their way to safety.

SIXTY NEW BAND INSTRUMENTS ARRIVE FOR STATE HOME BAND

Joel C. Trimble, director of the State Orphans Home two bands, was busy today unpacking and testing 60 newly purchased instruments which arrived Saturday from the Holton factory. Added to 30-odd instruments, the new ones will give the grammar school and high school bands probably the best instrumentation of any other bands of their kind in the state.

Included in the handsome new instruments were four giant Sousaphones, six trombones, 15 cornets and trumpets, four saxophones, including a baritone, a tenor and two altos; 18 clarinets, two flutes, four French horns, five parade drums, including one Scotch parade bass drum, and four snare drums; one large concert bass drum; a pair of imported Turkish cymbals, and two baritone horns.

All of the horns are silver with gold bells except the French horns which are gold lacquer. The drums have white shells with green trimmings—the State Home school's colors. All of the instruments except the percussions are packed in handsome and expensive carrying cases.

Director Trimble said at present there are 60 members in the grammar school band and 30 in the high school band, but later in the season there will be 90 in each division, giving the Home a total of 120 in both bands. Rehearsals are to begin in the near future.

ROOSEVELT SEES NO PRESENT REASON FOR AN EXTRA SESSION

MAY ISSUE CALL IF ACTUAL CRISIS COMES IN EUROPE OR FAR EAST

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Seeking to scotch reports he would call a special session of congress this fall, President Roosevelt said at a press conference today that so far as he knew at present there was no reason for calling congress back.

But he added that if actual crisis of war became imminent in Europe or the Far East—in other words, if it became reasonably certain there was going to be a war—he would probably immediately call a special session.

He said he would do so in order to insure American neutrality along the lines of international law.

The president said he favored the lines of international law so that this country would not be involved.

In general, he said, he favored neutrality legislation of the type for which the administration fought unsuccessfully in the last session—legislation making us neutral instead of unneutral.

That would mean repeal of the controverted arms embargo provision of the present law.

Asked whether it also would involve abandonment of the cash and carry system for trade with belligerents, Mr. Roosevelt asserted there were so many ways that matter could be handled he could not give a yes or no answer.

The president disclosed he had signed the social security bill and said he was busy with a pile of additional measures. He hoped to dispose of them all today, motor to New York tomorrow, and board a cruiser for a sea trip off New England.

Discusses Message.

He said he had nothing to add to his message to the Young Democrats, read at their Pittsburgh meeting yesterday, in which he said he would not support a conservative Democratic nominee for the presidency.

He said the words he had used in that message were very carefully chosen and were plain, simple English. They were designed to speak for themselves, he said, so that nothing could be read into them which was not there.

Lolling back in a chair in the study of his home, Mr. Roosevelt asserted that words of one syllable were about all that could be said and that was the type of words actually used.

Going more fully into the neutrality problem, Mr. Roosevelt said much could be done by executive action.

For instance, he said, during the World War Secretary of State Bryan urged President Wilson to warn Americans to stay off foreign flagships. One reason that Bryan resigned, he said, was because Mr. Wilson declined to do so.

We all are for the objectives of cash and carry, the chief executive declared, but there is a question whether that system requires legislation. After all, he said, it is a minor point, since the big thing is a return to international law.

Turning to other matters, the president said he had received a letter from President Cardenas of Mexico which, however, contained no new proposals for solving differences between the Mexican government and American oil companies in Mexico.

He said he could not discuss the letter as the entire matter was being handled by the state department.

ALSO WILL SPONSOR ANNUAL PRE-SEASON PICNIC FOR FOOTBALL BOYS

Underwriting of the cost of 65 batons for the pep squad and a decision to sponsor the annual football boys' picnic meeting before the season opens featured the meeting of the executive committee of the Corsicana Dads Club at the senior high school Thursday evening. Discussion for the sponsoring of the purchase of a projection machine for use in the local schools during the fall was held. It will be discussed later in the term.

Definite date for the feed for the football boys was delayed until the return of Coach John Pierce from the coaching school under way in Houston this week. W. A. Lang, athletic chairman, was appointed to have charge of the arrangements.

Those present Thursday night included President Fred V. Blucher, W. H. Norwood, school superintendent; Henry Levy, W. A. Lang, Beauford H. Jester, Paul Moore, J. I. Elliott, secretary; L. K. Carraway, Joe Wolens, Ben F. Blackmon, C. C. McClung, Mrs. Jack McKinney, Burleigh Butler and Miss Helen Bonner

VICTIMS OF CONFESSED KIDNAPER-MURDERER

Babbling an all but incredible story of how he had lured two high school girls from their Miami, Fla., homes, slew one with a knife when she protested his advances, and held the other a prisoner by his savage threats, Herbert Goddard, alias Charles Jefferson, radio announcer, confessed to kidnap and murder as he was held in a West Palm Beach, Florida, jail. Goddard confessed he killed Miss Frances Ruth Dunn (top in picture) near Boca Raton, Fla., after he had lured Miss Dunn and Miss Jean Bolton from Miami with a promise of a screen test to be given in Palm Beach, Fla.

DELAY ARRAIGNMENT KILLER OF FLORIDA GIRL FEAR VIOLENCE

MAN WITH NATION-WIDE CHECKERED CAREER HELD IN UNDISCLOSED JAIL

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Fearing mob violence, police authorities today delayed arraignment of Charles Jefferson on charges of abducting two Miami high school girls, slaying one and holding the other prisoner three days.

A few hours after the tall, 34-year old Jefferson confessed, County Solicitor W. E. Roebuck said, to assaulting and fatally stabbing Ruth Frances Dunn, 17-year old brunette beauty, officers rushed him under heavy guard to an undisclosed jail.

Officers reported there was an undertone of anger in street gatherings here as details of the case became generally known.

Jean Bolton, 19-year old blonde, second abduction victim who was released unharmed late Wednesday night at Boca Raton, 25 miles from here, was taken to a secluded resort to recuperate.

Miss Bolton yesterday told of being kept bound for most of three days and nights in Jefferson's coupe, bogged in a marshy side road 600 feet from the coastal highway near Boca Raton.

The body of Miss Dunn was found in palmetto underbrush nearby. Half covered with sand and an old raincoat, it was badly burised, bore several stab wounds in the side and a bullet hole in the forehead.

Jefferson, a man of many aliases and a checkered nation-wide career, which included theatrical radio and newspaper work as well as a civil and military police record since the age of 15, left Miami early Monday with the two girls, who thought he was a movie talent scout. He had promised them a screen test here.

In a rambling statement to the solicitor, Sheriff W. H. Lawrence and W. C. Fuller of the United States department of justice, he gave details of the episode. Roebuck asserted Jefferson declared he abducted the girls in the hope of arousing sympathy of a former sweetheart who had spurned him. He denied he intended holding them for ransom.

He told of assaulting Miss Dunn, then beating her with a hammer when she screamed for help after he had taken her into the underbrush.

POSTPONEMENT OF SELLING AND SALES SCHOOL ANNOUNCED

Postponement of the school in selling and sales phychology in Corsicana for one week was announced Friday following conferences between President J. M Dyer of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the school; Jack D. Brown of the extension service of Texas Christian University, and interested merchants.

Absence of some employees on vacations and conflicting events already scheduled for next week was assigned as the reason for delaying the start of the school from August 14 to August 21.

Mr. Brown reported well over 50 students enrolled for the course.

SURPLUS CORN-HOG SITUATION DEVELOPING IN MIDWEST, BUT NO PIG KILLING IS PLANNED

Editor's Note:—While an international conference in London seeks an answer to the problem of the wheat surplus, the United States is confronted with another bumper grain crop. This, the last of three articles, discusses the corn and hog situation).

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A surplus corn and hog situation similar to that of 1933 is developing in the mid-western farm belt—but agriculture department officials declare there will be no "little pig" killing program this time to reduce price-depressing supplies.

There no longer exists the shortage of corn and hogs which followed the 1934-36 drought period and the hog reduction program, under which the government bought several million head of pigs and diverted them into relief channels and into by-products.

Last year's corn crop was of bumper proportions. Another big crop is in prospect this year. Normally, bountiful supplies of corn are followed by large supplies of hogs and other meat animals. The 1939 big crop is expected to be the third largest since 1923.

As a consequence of these increases, prices of corn and hogs have declined sharply. Corn prices in mid-July averaged the lowest since 1923. Hog prices were the lowest since 1934.

Federal farm officials say there is one major factor responsible for the unfavorable price situation, and that is a reduced foreign market for lard and pork products and corn. Production being in excess of domestic needs, surpluses have accumulated.

Until a few years ago, the United States normally sold abroad between 35 and 45 per cent of its lard production. Those sales have slumped to about 20 per cent.

What does the government plan to do about this surplus situation?

It is developing a two-fold program, one for attacking the corn surplus and the other for attacking the lard and pork surplus.

To bolster corn prices, it has been and expects to continue to offer farmers loans. The loans, made at rates in excess of normal market prices, are designed to keep the surplus close to the farms and off the markets. The government also expects to ask corn farmers to grow less grain next year.

To bolster hog prices, the government will distribute lard and pork products among relief families. It also has under consideration proposals to offer surplus lard to foreign buyers at "cut-rate" prices. It would do this through an export subsidy. Too, it may offer feeders a premium to sell their hogs at medium rather than heavy weights.

Such a program, officials believe, would tend to reduce prospective lard and pork supplies and prevent further declines in prices of their products.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM CAMP HULEN CONCERNING CORSICANA BOYS LEARNING TACTICS OF WAR

By LT. PAUL A. DRESSER

CAMP HULEN, PALACIOS, Aug. 11.—Major John Garner, 2nd Battalion commander of the Field Artillery, who was appointed fire marshal of the entire camp, went into active service last Wednesday when grass that had been cut from the four-square mile camp site and stacked in one huge pile, accidentally became ignited and the fire companies were called out to prevent it from spreading. Although Major Garner's executive officer, Captain Sonsie Molloy, has tried every place to get him a red hat and although he has no red fire marshal's car with a siren, Major Garner soon had the situation completely in control and no damage resulted from the blaze. Evidently his many years service as a Corsicana volunteer fireman was very helpful.

Members of Battery D formed the guard detail for the 132nd Field Artillery Thursday and Friday, with Captain Robinson, officer of the day and Second Lieutenent Ernest Kirkland, officer of the guard. Members of the guard were Pete McCain, sergeant of the guard; Charlie Aston, Bill Burge and Bill Prewitt, corporals of the guard; and "Sleepy" Beale, Elbert Cox, Nolen Hickey, Emery Holloway, James Laudan, Caxton Bivin, Lawson Wade, Joseph M. Brooks, Robert Kiser, Arthur Melton, Clarence Novak, Van Elkins, Obie Mims, Calvin Pike, Ernest French Rex Moss, Dubart Prince, Sterling Gordon, Jefferson Carraway and Bill McGlohen, members of the guard. A formal guard mount was held with Captain Louis Molloy acting as adjutant for the ceremonies. The guard was formed, inspected and marched in review, taken to the guard house where the ceremonies for changing the guards was executed. The guard detail is responsible for policing the regimental area, stopping all possible disturbances, stopping all cars in the area after challenging hours and inspecting them for people who should not be in the area. Members of the guard are divided into three details, each detail walking their posts in two hour tours. These men are on continuous duty for 24 hours.

Six Battery D men, Sergeant Remus Jones, Privates Elbert Cox, Freddy York, Arthur Melton, Nolen Hickey, and Jefferson Carraway, who have been attending the regimental automatic rifle school have been designated to fire the rifle for record fire. This arm is now used for anti-aircraft protection and this is the first time that instruction has been given members of this regiment in the use of this weapon as in the past two mounted machine guns were used for this purpose. Since Sergeant Jones had had previous experience in the use of this weapon, he has been the principal instructor in the regimental school, which 54 men from the various batteries have been attending.

The three "stowaways," Henry Ellis Haley, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Haley; Kenneth Aston, son of Sergeant Zuzu Aston, and Danny McBroom, son of Abe McBroom, have been completely transformed into soldiers—it taking only one day for them to learn to use their mess kits and know the bugle mess call. Aston has become the official shoe shine boy and keeps a very neat account of what members of the battery owe for his services. Mrs. Haley will not have to send her washing out as Son Henry Ellis has completely learned the laundry trade. These three youngsters are officially the Battery D mascots, Haley and McBroom acting as orderlies for the three Battery officers, Capt. Randolph Robinson, Lieutenant Paul Dresser and Lieutenant Kirkland and, Aston is Major John Garner's orderly.

Twenty-one members of Battery D have chartered a 50 foot motor boat for a week end fishing trip into the Gulf. They will leave Palacios at 6 a. m. and return about 7 p. m. Those going on the trip are First Lieut. Paul Dresser, Second Lieut. Ernest Kirkland, Sergeants Zuzu Aston, Leslie Hickey, Pete McCain, Bruce Cagle, Harold Hardgraves; Corporals Hue Gordon, Marvin Burks, Charlie Aston, Bill Burge; and Privates James Laudan, Elliott Beale, "Sleepy" Beale, James Cheek, Elbert Cix, Clarence Novak, and Mascots Kenneth Aston, Henry Ellis Haley and Dan McBroom. This will be a completely new experience for a large number of the boys as this is the first time several of them have ever been to the Gulf.

"Thanks."

Members of Battery D and Regimental Battery of the 132nd Field Artillery are most thankful for the copies of the Corsicana Daily Sun sent to them each day by the newspaper. During the 1938 field maneuvers at Camp Bullis it was not possible to receive the papers daily and they were missed very much. This courtesy of the Daily Sun keeps the men informed of what is happening at home and there is a real scramble for the home news each day.

ALLEGED TO OWE FIVE AND HALF MILLIONS INCOME TAX AND PENALTIES

CHICAGO, Aug. 11—(AP)—M. L. Annenburg former newsboy who amassed a fortune in publishing race-horse information, was indicted with three associates today by a federal grand jury which charged he "wilfully evaded the income tax law," by failing to pay taxes, plus innterest and penalties, of $5,548,384.89 from 1932 to 1936 inclusive.

District Attorney William J. Campbell said it was the largest income tax case in history.

The 50-page indictment listed the amount of allegedly evaded tax at $3,258,809.97 for the five years, and the 50 per cent penalties and 6 per cent interest at $2,285,574.92.

Annenberg, whose race wires weave over the United States and into Canada, also publishes newspapers and magazines and has large real estate holdings. He listed his net income for the five years as $1,175,117.15; the government contended it was $5,028,628.26.

Others indicted were Annenberg's son, Walter, and Arnold W. Kruse, and Joseph E. Hafner, alias Samuel Goldfarb, whom the government identified as officials of the Cecilia company, Annenberg's top holding corporation.

They were accused of aiding and abetting the alleged evasion.

The indictment, returned before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, contained ten counts, one for each of the years involved and five relating to the alleged aiding and abetting. Annenberg was named in all counts.

The indictment was reported to be but one of a series to be sought against Annenberg.

LIBERALIZATION IN FORMER LAW WHILE TAXES ARE REDUCED

FORMAL STATEMENT DECLARES AMENDMENTS TREMENDOUS STEP FORWARD

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Aug. 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed today a bill making broad liberalizations in the social security act and cutting hundreds of millions of dollars off the tax burden it imposes.

The President said in a formal statement "these amendments to the act represent another tremendous step forward in providing greater security for the people of this country."

"This is especially true,' he added, "in the case of the federal old age insurance system which has now been converted into a system of old age and survivors' insurance providing lifetime family security instead of only individual old age security to the workers in insured occupations.

'In addition to the worker himself, millions of widows and orphans will now be afforded some degree of protection in the event of his death whether before or after his retirement."

The President said the size of benefits to be paid during the early years would be "far more adequate than under the present law."

He said he was glad unemployment insurance benefits have been extended to cover workers in some occupations previously uncovered.

"However," he asserted, "workers in other occupations have been excluded. In my opinion, it is imperative that these insurance benefits be extended to workers in all occupations."

Mr. Roosevelt said he was asking a committee on economic security, comprised of government officials to study various proposals which may be made for additional changes in the security act.

In signing the legislation, Mr. Roosevelt disposed of the last major bll remaining from the congressional session.

Millions of persons will benefit. One amendment alone, freezing for three years the present tax rate for old-age insurance, will result in an estimated saving of $905,000,000 to taxpayers.

The tax of 1 per cent on employes and 1 per cent on employers based on individual earnings up to $3,000 a year, will be retained at least until January 1, 1943. Without the amendment, the rate on each would have advanced to 1 1-2 per cent next January 1.

January 1, 1940, also will mark the start of old-age insurance benefits—two years earlier than the old law would have allowed.

CORSICANA, TEX., AUG. 15, 1939

INDICTMENT OF A NATION.

"There must be some element of vital decay here—a governing class unsure of its tenure, a nation weary of acting as a nation, an economy and society shaken to their base. The mines and the cotton trade are dead and there is a blight over whole areas. You can drive through towns which gape empty to the moon.

"There is a whole new generation in some areas that has never found employment at all. The solvent part of the population never ceases complaining of the necessity of feeding (not well, but feeding) the part that cannot work. In such a state what preoccupations can there be other than the desire to make money and more money and to keep it; to risk nothing; to scurry from task to immediate task, intent and troubled, with no thought for the world that crowds steadily in; to reach happiness in such economic security that, in the end, one's children may go to good private schools and universities and eat their lunches in good clubs?

Who thus indicts America? No one. With the change of the word "public" to "private" before "schools" and one or two similarly trivial alterations, this is Vincent Sheehan's indictment of England in his new book, "Not Peace But A Sword."

America has made so many of the same mistakes. Can she not learn from the disheartening example of other nations to move more swiftly and surely toward the remedies for their common ills?

LIVE, AND LIKE IT

Marjorie Hillis, who wrote the popular book "Live Alone and Like It' and then got married, has had to take a lot of kidding for her switch from bachelor girl to wife. Mrs. Thomas Henry Roulston, who was Miss Hillis, has been a good sport about the wisecracks, but the jibe-tossing crowd has been having fun without real excuse.

Miss Hillis has not invalidated the thesis of her book by choosing matrimony. It is as true today as it was when she took the girls of the country by storm, that if you are living alone you might as well do it pleasantly and graciously, making the best use of your resources, financial and personal. Her advice was to live, not merely exist.

LIGHT OR DARK

Dr. William Moulton Marston, called one of America's popular psychologists, says in an article in the August issue of "Your Life" that men do not prefer blondes but brunettes.

Anita Loos sticks to her guns and says blondes remain the more popular.

This is one of those serious disagreements which seem to be characteristic of the current month of August. World - shaking, isn't it?

But judging from the society columns of our favorite newspaper and a few others, it looks as if the controversy could be simply settled. The evidence seems to indicate that, when you get right down to it,

Men prefer both.

JUST FOLKS

WATCHING THE BABY.

Little fellow, looking around
With a gaze that's most profound
Can it in years departed
Just like you I stared about?
Were those common things and trite
Once so beautiful and bright,
Glowing mystery and magic
Which I couldn't figure out.

Little grandson lying there
As about the room you stare
At the mantel's pretty vases
And the pictures on the wall
At the spectacles on me.
Of I wonder can it be
That my eyes were round with wonder
In the days when I was small.
Did all things now dull and cold
Once such rich enchantment hold?
Little bright eyed smiling fellow,
This is what I'd like to know:
Did I stare about as you
Thinking everything was new?
Was this old world filled with wonders
In that distant long ago?

EDUCATION FOR THE EDUCATED

"The more highly educated people are, the more difficult it seems to be for them to think straight" said Dr. Eduard Lindemann of the New School of Social Research, lecturing to teachers and social workers at Bucknell University. He believes that college graduates are the ones who need Adult Education most. "They have so much in their heads that isn't so."

If this be true, the college graduates in question are not really educated. For education, to be any good at all, must have as its major objective the training of the mind so that it can meet and conquer new problems. It should be able to function as "the beautiful, clear, cold logic engine" which Thomas Huxley said the human mind should be.

Dr. Lindemann was, perhaps, straining a point to make his meaning clear. But it is only too true that post - graduates who have done most of their work in highly specialized fields are apt to be a little dull when they turn to pastures new.

Summer is a good time to do reading in new fields, to oil up the logic engine and to invite the soul. The public library, which is coming to be one of the most active agencies in the realm of Adult Education, is usually helpful with lists of good books in various lines of study and adventure. Why should anyone, college graduate or not let himself get rusty and prejudiced by falling back on his old knowledge of things that now aren't so? So many ideas and sciences change. It's as smart or even smarter to be up-to-date in ideas and information than in clothes or furniture or cars.

RHINORRHEA

The annual curse has come upon a couple of million Americans again. It is what doctors quaintly call "paroxysmal rhinorrhea" popularly known as "hay fever." The latter term dates from the time when hay, not ragweed, was supposed to be the main cause of the sneezing and wheezing and flowing and blowing.

To identify this ailment the following description is given by a state health director:

"The symptoms of hay fever resemble those of a beginning cold. It is attended by sneezing, blocking of nostrils due to the swollen muccous membrane, watery discharge from the nose, slight elevation of temperature and a later tendency to subnormal temperature. There is itching of the inner angle of the eye and the roof of the mouth in the region of the soft palate."

This technical statement falls far short of portraying the actual misery of the victim. And usually there isn't much to do but make a virtue of endurance—unless the patient can flee to mountains, the seashore or the far north, where there is less ragweed or other irritating pollen.

A vacationer tells of finding a snake that had tackled a frog too big for him to swallow, and they would both have died if he hadn't killed the snake. It reminds him of Japan and China.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN NOWADAYS!

UNFAMILIAR GOVERNMENT

Three per cent of us, according to a recent Gallup poll, think this country has had at least one third-term president. Asked to name him, the three per cent name variously Theodore Roosevelt, George Washington, Cleveland, Wilson, Grant, Coolidge, Harrison, Jefferson and Lincoln.

Four per cent of us think the Constitution expressly forbids a third term; 18 per cent don't know what it says on the subject.

The polltakers did not ask what is meant by the term "term" or how many years comprise one. It's a pity. The answers might have been amusing.

But jesting aside, when so much confusion exists on so simple a group of facts as these, there is little wonder that greater confusion clouds understanding of more complicated matters.

MORE TELEPHONES

One of the commentators on the recent increase in number of telephone installations calls it "a puzzler for the business analyst." It seems that Ohio installation set a new all-time peak in May and increase has been general all over the country.

But why puzzle? One of the last things a worker passes up is his telephone. It's his chance of getting a new job, as well as a great convenience, and one of the first things he puts back when he gets even a part-time job. Once upon a time there was a "call boy" for workers who worked irregular schedules. Now the boss lifts his receiver and expects the workers to lift theirs when the bell rings.

The office which did without extensions during the worst years, but had learned to depend on them, hurries them back in as soon as it can. Every mother of small children feels safer with a telephone. Its uses are manifold.

The luxury of yesterday becomes the matter-of-fact convenience of today, the necessity of tomorrw. The electric refrigerator seems to be the next in this line, following fast on the heels of the telephone and the automobile.

It seems to be still an open question whether a "decent exposition" can pay financially.

Seems as if Hitler isn't quite so sure lately about being a Superman.

New Foundation Endowed By Will Of M. D. Anderson

HOUSTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—M. D. Anderson, wealthy cotton man who died Sunday, bequeathed $1,000,000 to relatives and established a huge foundation "to improve working conditions among workers generally, establish and support hospitals, homes and institutions for the care of the sick, the young, the aged, the incompetent and the helpless among the people," his will revealed today.

The bachelor cotton man, one of the founders of Anderson, Clayton and Company,, the world's largest cotton firm, set up the foundation, known as the M. D. Anderson foundation, three years ago and had placed some funds in it before his death.

By the terms of the indenture, the foundation was organized for the purpose of public usefulness within the terms of one or more charitable uses and purposes, the trustees, W. B. Bates and John H. Freeman, said. The foundation, Anderson's will specified, as in the nature of an endowment fund with the corpus of the estate, estimated to run into several millions of dollars, preserved as a fund to be kept invested and produce income for charitable purposes specified throughout the years.

"The foundation is strictly charitable and no part of its earnings or property may inure to the benefit of any private person or individual," a statement released by the trustees said.

In addition to the fund already paid into the foundation and the residue of the estate after all legacies have been paid, the will provides that three $100,000 trust funds created for relatives shall revert to the foundation after the deaths of the beneficiaries.

Specific bequests to relatives included the income from $100,000 worth of debentures for his late brother and surviving sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Anderson of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; to his nephew, James Anderson and Mrs. Anderson of Tuscaloosa, the income from another $100,000 trust fund, and to a sister, Frolia A. Andrews of Jackson, Miss., the income from another $100,000 trust fund.

Bequests of $50,000 each were left to 10 nephews, William Anderson, Clayton Anderson, Harry and Hayes Nance and James, Frany, Iceland, Bobbie, Tommie and Ben Anderson, whose addresses were not given. Most if the nephews live in Houston, New York and Missississi.

To a niece, Louise NanceWheelock daughter of a late sister, the cotton man left $50,000. Mrs. Burdine C. Anderson, widow of a late brother was left $50,000.

A cousin, Mrs. Florine J. Moulding of St. Louis, was given $50,000.

Three nephews, James E. Anderson, William L. Anderson and Thomas D Anderson and a Houston bank were named executors.

ROOSEVELT DECLARES WILL NOT SUPPORT CONSERVATIVE 1940

LETTER READ BEFORE THE YOUNG DEMOCRATIC MEET REVEALS PRESIDENT STAND

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Spirited young democrats, cheering for a "third term" for President Roosevelt, entered the second session of their annual convention today after hearing a message from the Chief Executive that he would not support a conservative for President in 1940.

They waited with interest a morning address by Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the senate democratic leader, and a night speech by Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator mentioned as a possible "compromise" candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

In a carefully worded message to the convention here last night, President Roosevelt said:

"If we nominate conservative candidates, or lip-service candidates on a straddle bug platform, I personally, for my own self respect and because of my long service to, and belief in, liberal democracy, will find it impossible to have any active part in such an unfortunate suicide of the old democratic party."

The President still kept his own counsel about a third term, but asserted flatly the party would "fail if it goes conservative" or is "led by people who can offer naught but fine phrases."

Shortly after the convention heard the Roosevelt message read amid cheers by Pitt Tyson Maner, of Montgomery, Ala., retiring president, the audience stood and applauded a statement by Senator Pepper (D-Fla), convention keynoter, advocating a third term for Roosevelt's ideas" in 1940.

Pepper charged the Wall Street "financial oligarchy" and "kingmakers" who had "picked" presidents in the past, were trying to do it again and already had selected for their candidates "Bricker of Ohio for president and Dewey fo New York (I believe) as vice president."

Loud "boos" greeted his remarks as he referred to John W. Bricker, Ohio governor, and Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney, both republicans.

Mr. Roosevelt said in his message he felt the senior party convention would "see the political wisdom, as well as the national wisdom of giving to the voters of the United States an opportunity to maintain the practice and the policy of moving forward with a liberal and humanitarian program."

"Do not let the reactionaries and the conservatives get away with fine phrases," he told the young democrats. "Pin them down and make them tell you just how they would do it."

Politicians Wonder What President Meant

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The question of how far President Roosevelt would go in his avowed refusal to participate in electing a "conservative" or "lip-service" Democrat as his successor intrigued capital politicians today.

Did he mean, they speculated, that he would head a third party if an anti-New Deal Democrat were nominated.

Or would he merely sit in his White House study or on the velvety lawns of his Hyde Park, N. Y., home and remain silent throughout the 1940 campaign?

The chief executive himself gave no clue in his message to the Young Democrats' convention at Pittsburgh, limiting his comment to a statement that he would "find it impossible to have any active part in such an unfortunate suicide of the Democratic party."

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), who talked with the chief executive last Sunday, told reporters:

"Under no conditions do I believe he would run as an independent."

The Oklahoma senator added the personal opinion, however, that Mr. Roosevelt might walk out of the Democratic convention if Vice President Garner were nominated.

Senator Logan (D-Ky) said that although it would be "very damaging and unfortunate" if the president did not back the party's choice, he believed the Democrats could win anyway if they "nominate a man who can obtain support from all classes."

The president's message generally was viewed here as an attempt to block anti-New Deal candidates well in advance of the 1940 Democratic convention.

Big Acreage Fall Tomatoes Planted Maverick County

EAGLE PASS, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Nearly 1,200 acres of tomatoes have been planted in Maverick county for harvest next November, County Agricultural Agent W. M. Sellers estimates. So far, the crop is doing excellently. Farmers in Quemado Valley have organized the Quemado Valley Shippers Association to handle the packing and shipping of their harvest.

A large acreage of alfalfa is being harvested in the Quemado Valley and Indio Valley sections of the Maverick county irrigation district.

MUCH INTEREST IS BEING EVIDENCED IN HEARING ON BUDGET

LARGE ATTENDANCE ANTICIPATED FOR TUESDAY MORNING MEET

County authorities are anticipating a large crowd of interested citizens to attend the hearings scheduled for Tuesday before the commissioners court on the proposed 1940 budget for county departmental expenditures.

County Auditor E. Y. Cunningham and County Judge Paul H. Miller have spent considerable time in an effort to prepare a tentative budget to fix anticipated revenues. It is no secret that the general requirements and the revenue in sight do not balance.

Urged To Attend

In addition to the usual interest in the budget, added impetus has been seen in the announcements recently by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, urging citizens to attend the hearings in their respective counties and see where the tax money is set up for spending.

The meeting Friday of the county-wide tax study committee of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce also heightened interest in the proposed budget hearings. J. O. Sessions of Bazette, a former member of the commissioners court, is chairman of the tax committee, and a sub-committee composed of J. M. Tullos, former county auditor, Corsicana; J. P. Johnson, Blooming Grove, member of the county hospital board, and E. L. McCluney, Kerens, Friday afternoon studied the budget as tentatively outlined by County Auditor Cunningham and is slated to make its recommendations to the larger committee Tuesday morning before the meeting with the commissioners court. The county-wide tax study committee will meet at 9 a. m. Tuesday and then adjourn and go to the courthouse for the hearing.

Loss In Renditions

A loss of approximately $500,000 in renditions of properties in Navarro county this year has made the task of the budget preparation more difficult, authorities have pointed out.

One question that is bothering the commissioners is whether they can include anticipated delinquent tax collections in anticipated revenues on which to base a budget. A ruling from the attorney general has been requested on that question.

CASE INVOLVING CUSTODY OF CHILD SENT TO DALLAS

A habeas corpus proceeding, filed here July 1, this year by Lawson Lee Wade, and wife of Navarro County, against Paul G. Grissom, and wife, of Dallas county, over the custody of Lawson Lee Wade, aged four years, has been sent from the Thirteenth Judicial District court here to the Sixty-Eighth judician District court in Dallas.

The suit was sent to the Dallas court Thursday after District Judge Wayne R. Howell had granted a plea of privilege in the case on August 2, District Clerk R. Arthur Caldwell stated Friday.

The case has been docketed in the Dallas court but no date set for the hearing, reports from Dallas Friday stated.

A. AND M. READY TO CARE FOR ALL BOYS SEEK REGISTER

TWELVE FINE NEW DORMITORIES PROVIDE PLENTY ROOM COMING YEAR

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Every boy in Texas who wants a college education is invited to enter A. and M.

For the first time in several years the college will have plenty of dormitory rooms available when the 1939-40 session begins in September. Officials say the $2,000,000 building project is ahead of schedule.

The construction program nearing completion is providing 1,380 fine new rooms in a dozen brick dormitories together with a new dining hall capable of seating more than 2,500 students. Funds for the new buildings were provided by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and revenues from the dormitories will be set aside to repay it.

Several old dormitories have been kept in use the past few years, long after they had served their time. The new buildings will allow retirement of the older buildings, which probably will be devoted to other uses.

The enrollment of more than 5,800 students in 1938-39 necessitated expansion of the co-operative housing program. Two buildings in Navasota were leased and renovated for student use, the boys traveling more than 40 miles a day from living quarters to classrooms and return.

Some 50 residences in Bryan and vicinity also were filled with students who banded together to live under the co-operative plan.

The new dormitories and a dozen co-operative houses on the campus will provide sufficient additional room to the present dormtory facilitis to accommodate the expected enrollment of upwards of 6,500 students.

The American Legion is building a dormitory on the campus to accomodate 70 sons of war veterans, and this too will be ready for occupancy in September. Upon completion of the new buildings the Aggie cadet corps will be housed again within the boundaries of the 4,500 acre campus.

New students will register Sept. 20 and old students Sept. 21 First semester classes for all students will begin at 8 a. m. Friday Sept. 22.

TRAINMAN KILLED, MANY PERSONS HURT IN DENVER WRECK

COLLISION TWO PASSENGER TRAINS AT CROSSOVER SWITCH SATURDAY

DENVER, Aug. 12.—(AP)—One trainman was killed and an estimated 35 persons were injured today in a collision of two crack passenger trains at a crossover switch in South Denver.

The Denver and Rio Grande Western's scenic limited, southbound, crashed into a passenger car on the Santa Fe railroad's northbound train No. 6 at the crossover, reported W. A. Marlett, in charge of a railroad control tower near the wreck scene.

Marlett said the Santa Fe car was turned over on its side and that the Denver and Rio Grande's locomotive was derailed.

The man killed was identified as A. S. Mock of Pueblo, conductor of the Santa Fe train. Witnesses reported Mock, in the wash room of the overturned car, virtually was cut into.

Patrolman C. L. Schwab estimated 35 were injured.

Five ambulances called to the scene, south of West Alameda boulevard, rushed the victims to hospitals.

Marlett, from his high tower a short distance from the intersection of the two tracks, had an unobscured view of the wreck.

"The two came together with a terrific crash," he said. "The derailed locomotive spurted steam high into the air with a deafening hissing sound.

"Then the passengers began climbing out of the train. Some of them came through the windows."

The scenic limited, one of the Denver and Rio Grande's most popular tourist trains, had pulled out of Union Station a few minutes before the crash for its run to Salt Lake via Pueblo and the Royal Gorge. The train was pulled by two locomotives.

Marlett, the control power supervisor, said the Santa Fe train, running late, had a signal to clear the cross over switch. It was well into the cross over when the scenic limited engine crashed into the fourth car of the Santa Fe train.

The northbound Santa Fe train, made up in La Junta, Colo., runs into Denver with cars from the road's crack California limited and trains from Texas points.

YOUNG NEW DEALER ELECTED PRESIDENT YOUNG DEMOCRATS

CONVENTION CHEERS DEMAND CHICAGO MAYOR FOR ROOSEVELT THIRD TERM

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12.—(AP)—After cheering a "demand" by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago that President Roosevelt run for a third term, the national convention of Young Democratic Clubs today elected a 28-year old New Dealer, Homer Mat Adams, of Springfield, Ill., as its president for the next two years.

Adams is assistant director of finance of the state of Illinois.

In his address, Mayor Kelly said he believed a third term was the sentiment of the convention.

Recalling Roosevelt's words that he had enlisted for the duration of the "social struggle," the mayor said:

"In this economic war against starvation and unemployment and in this social struggle against insecurity, Mr. President, we demand that you continue as commander-in-chief of our liberal humanitarian government."

Pitt Tyson Maner, of Montgomery, Ala., retiring president of the Young Democrats, made a farewell speech in which he said:

"Thank God, this convention has been wholeheartedly for our great leader, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and his policies."

The convention staged a ten-minute demonstration last hight after a speech by Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, outlining a future course for "modern liberalism." If the temper of that session was truly indicative the convention today may be expected to endorse continuance of New Deal aims.

The organization's constitution prohibits endorsement of any presidential candidates until after one is nominated by the party.

Modern Liberalism.

The speech of McNutt, who has announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination but says he is willing to withdraw if Roosevelt runs again, included a promised enlargement of the social security program he now directs and warm parises for President Roosevelt and his "liberal" objectives.

He devoted half his lengthy address to a definition of modern liberalism and said three of its main goals were:

"Vigilant protection for civil liberties, elimination of abuses threatening "our economic and social order," and finding means for making "our economic machine turn out the abundant production of which it is capable."

Before he spoke, Sen. Josh Lee of Oklahoma, brought on the first noisy demonstration of the evening with this declaration:

"It is not for Roosevelt to tell us that he wants a third term, But it is rather for us to tell Roosevelt that we want a third term. Now is the time to raise the banner for Roosevelt for 1940!"

Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson declared Roosevelt's "coalition" opposition in congress had stimulated the "third term" sentiment. He added whether Roosevelt ran or not, the people would not allow his ideals to die.

Valuations Of Intangibles Show Large Decrease

Intangibles valuations in Navarro county took a tumble of slightly less than 40 per cent for this year as compared with last year, Tom Farmer, assessor and collector of taxes, announced Saturday, following the receipt of the valuations from the state tax board.

Intangibles are composed of the railroads' rolling stock and pipelines.

Last year the valuations amounted to $1,014,180 while this year they are $633,940, a decrease of $380,240.

Assessor and Collector Farmer pointed out that county officials had no recourse or appeal from the valuations set by the state tax board. He was at a loss, however, to understand the approximately 40 per cent tax reduction on intangibles in Navarro county when newspaper dispatches from Austin are said to have contained the information that the state average reduction in this type of valuations amounted to only approximately 3 per cent.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES PRAISED GRAND JURY REPORT

Law enforcement agencies were commended for their efforts and were urged to pay particular attention to infractions of the penal code with reference to safety conditions on the highways in the final written report to District Judge Wayne R. Howell by the July term of the grand jury Friday. The grand jury was finally discharged.

The report pointed out that the probers were in session 10 days, returned 15 indictments and examined 145 witnesses. It stated that the county farm, county jail and P. and S. Hospital recently were visited and inspected by a grand jury and the July term body did not deem it necessary to spend the time in the inspections.

Praise Officers.

"We heartily commend the law enforcement officers of the county for the co-operation which they have given us," the report stated, and "we request that they all, particularly the peace officers of the county and of the city of Corsicana, continue to suppress gambling and rackets."

The report urged the highway patrol "to apprehend drunken, careless and fast drivers," and commended the criminal district attorney's office for speedy trials, "particularly to drunken driving cases."

"We also commend the jurors of this county upon the fact that there have been no acquittals," the report stated in reference to driving while intoxicated trials.

Returns Indictments.

Indictments returned Friday to Judge Howell included:

Willie Scourten, driving while intoxicated; John Leslie Harrington, "Big 'On," and Isaac Tomlin, burglary; Dave Rogers, embezzlement; R. H. Jones, keeping a gambling house; Eddie Bruce, Monte Bruce and Buddie Jernigen, assault with intent to murder.

The report was signed by J. S. Millerman, foreman; Brice R. Bonner, secretary; Rod Kenner, J. B. Strain, N. G. Clark, J. A. Anderson, J. O. McSpadden, L. M. Seale, C. C. Turner, Charley Watson, T. H. Benton and G. W. Jackson.

LOUISIANA

raised bids on ten building contracts.

Eugene Barksdale, former assistant to Caldwell at the university, also was indicted on charges of diversion of Works Progress Administration labor and material valued at $1,272.64.

According to federal authorities the $16,061.65 Caldwell allegedly collected, through having sub-contractors raise their bids on university work with Caldwell pocketing the difference, was in addition to a 2 per cent overriding fee he collected on all construction projects there during thee tenure of former president James Monroe Smith, now in jail on forty counts ranging from embezzlement to forgery.

Caldwell was dismissed July 1 after the university scandal broke, and later was indicted by a Baton Rouge grand jury. Barksdale was suspended.

Today's indictments alleged Barksdale converted the WPA labor and materials to his own premises and use in Baton Rouge where he lives.

Both indictments against Caldwell charged him with mail fraud in that letters between him and two New Orleans contracting firms, as well as university checks for their sub-contracts, passed through the mails.

The first indictment involved Clifford A. King, New Orleans dealer in marble and slate work, who was low bidder on seven subcontracts at the university since 1935, and on each of which the government charges Caldwell prevailed upon King to raise his bid from $1,000 to $3,000, giving Caldwell the difference.

The indictment charges Caldwell thus collected $11,500 from King in cash and in person, and another $4,561.65 from A. J. Colfry, New Orleans terrazzo dealer, on three sub-contracts by the same means. In one case federal attorneys said Caldwell accompanied the contractor to the bank, and waited outside in an automobile, to collect his payoff.

The government alleged Caldwell in his dealings with Colwry sold the latter sand, cement and other material belonging to the university and the WPA to a value of $956, but for which Caldwell allegedly collected $2,200.

Officers said indications were the six men killed were standing in a group around the shell, which they had picked up on the artillery range.

General Tyndall said there apparently wase no way to determine exactly what caused the explosion but expressed belief the group dropped the shell or tinkered with the fuse. He said he believed it was a .75 millimeter shell, a caliber widely used during the world war, and failed to exlode when fired recently from a mortar.

PROMINENT YOUNG NEW YORK WOMAN IS SHOT BY ADMIRER

MAN KILLS HIMSELF AFTER WOUNDING STATE TROOPER EARLY TODAY

SMITHTOWN BRANCH, N. Y., Aug. 12.—(AP)—A socially prominent young divorcee was shot and critically wounded after a house party on the fashionable Long Island North Shore today by a man described by State Police Lieutenant Charles La Forge as "a jealous admirer."

The assailant fired three shots at Mrs. Elizabeth Greve Caldwell Carolyn of Delafield Farm, Noroton, Conn.; wounded a state trooper who tried to save her, then turned the gun on himself and sent four bullets into his heart. He died almost instantly.

Lieut. La Forge identified him as Lawrence Sprague, 30, son of Dr. Shirley E. Sprague, New York City physician.

The shooting occurred in the pretentious summer home of Mrs. Madeleine Waterman Higgins, 31, daughter-in-law of the late Charles Higgins of New York, head of the Higgins Ink Company.

Mrs. Carolyn, who uses her maiden name of Greve, is the daughter of William Greve, Wealthy ex-president of the Prudence Bond Company of Brooklyn which in 1923 insured his life for $1,000,000. Greve was in Bermuda when the shooting occurred and made plans to fly her at once.

Mrs. Higgins said Sprague had telephoned Mrs. Carolyn about 10 o'clock last night but was told Mrs. Carolyn was not there.

Earlier in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Richard Emmett of St. James, another North Shore town, had called with some house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Watts of New Canaan, Conn.

Just What Happened.

In a signed statement to Lieut. La Forge, Mrs. Higgins described what happened after that.

"At 1:30 a. m. Elizabeth and I showed the way to the Emmett's home to the house guests, who stayed later than Mr. Emmett," Mrs. Higgins told police. "We got back at 2 a. m., and saw Sprague's car in front of the house. We went into the house but Larry was not in sight. Elizabeth called to him and he came downstairs. Larry asked Elizabeth if it was all off with him and she said it was. He brought the gun out and I told him to put it away.

"Elizabeth ran upstairs and he ran after her. I called the state police and told them there was a man in my house drunk and in a jealous rage. The troopers came and went upstairs. I followed them to the door of my bedroom. There are twin beds to the left and as the troopers opened the door we saw Larry and Elizabeth on the far bed. As we entered there were bullets flying. Larry shot at Elizabeth first, then the trooper went after him. There were a lot more shots fired and the trooper grappled with him."

Mrs. Carolyn was hit by three bullets which just missed the wall of her stomach.

The trooper, John Busch, was hit in the left arm. Then Sprague turned the gun on himself.

PRESIDENT CLEANS UP WORK ON BILLS PASSED BY CONGRESS

LEAVES FOR CRUISE ALONG NEW ENGLAND AND CANADIAN COASTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt boarded the cruiser Tuscaloosa at 11:45 a. m. (EST) (10:45 CST) for a vacation cruise off the New England and Canadian coasts. He had motored here from his Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt compelted today his job of passing judgment on legislation and left on a motor trip to New York, where the cruiser Tuscaloosa waited to take him on a cruise off the New England and Canadian coasts.

The hundreds of bills rushed through congress in its closing days had been signed or rejected.

In the seclusion of the study of his Hyde Park home, he received a last minute report on foreign affairs from the state department.

Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference yesterday he saw no need at present of summoning congress back to work early. But, he added, if it became reasonably certain there was going to be a war in Europe or the Fast East, he probably would call a special session.

The president cruise route was indefinite, depending partially on the weather encountered. Mr. Roosevelt had arranged to go ashore only at Campobello, New Brunswick, where his mother has a summer home and where Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., his son and daughter-in-law, are vacationing.

The president hoped to reach Capobello Monday forenoon and sail later in the day on a leisurely trip up the coast.

He expected to return to Washington late this month.

Major legislation approved during his stay at his home beside the Hundson included:

Big Appropriation Bill

A bill enlarging benefits and lowering tax burdens of the social security program.

A $180,000,000 appropriation bill which provided $119,000,000 to help strengthen farm prices and smaller sums for national defense.

A measure authorizing a $277,000,000 appropriation for construction of a third set of locks for the Panama Canal—locks which Mr. Roosevelt said would bolster the defenses of the United States and the western hemisphere as well.

One of the last bills authorized preliminary examinations and surveys for flood control of numerous rivers throughout the country.

Another bill signed granted the federal surplus commodities corporation permission to buy and distribute surplus fish products.

The president signed, too, a bill authorizing construction of water conservation and utilization projects in the Great Plains, arid and semi-arid regions of the nation. He said in a statement, however, he would call deficiencies in the measure to the attention of congress at its next session.

Bride-to-Be Was Honoree of Lovely Courtesy In Kerens

KERENS, Aug. 12.—(Spl.)—Miss Katherine Ivey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ivey, whose marriage to James Heiser of San Marcos will take place at the First Baptist church in Kerens on Aug. 21st, was honored Tuesday evening with an al fresco supper party and kitchen shower, given at the home of Miss Cecil Ross, with Miss Virginia Crowley co-hostess.

Only intimate friends of the bride-elect were present to enjoy the delectable meal served on the lovely lawn.

The shower gifts were presented in a very interesting and unusual way. The affair was a surprise to the honoree, who took part in the game of Bingo, along with the rest. In true carnival fashion a prize was awarded at the end of each game, and these later were piled at the feet of Miss Ivey, who had not realized they were intended for her.

The more unusual kitchen gadgets, which probably will not be included in the big miscellaneous shower to be given later were the thoughtful gifts of these intimate friends: Mrs. A. R. Carroll, Miss Mabel Holland, Mrs. Bernard McCord of Grandbury, Mrs. L. E. Gray, Mrs. Lee Smith of Tyler, Mrs. Alvin Inmon, Miss Dorothy Holt, and Mrs. E. K. Howell.

Another lovely gift was presented at the conclusion of the delightful evening, a taffeta covered down comfort in dusty rose and dubonnet, whose donors were all close friends. A number of varied social affairs are being planned for the remaining days before the wedding.

WALTER MORRIS RECALLS EARLY DAY PLAYING WITH CORSICANA

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Aug. 12.—(AP)—J. Walter Morris looked down baseball's road and agve the nod to present day players when it came to getting the breaks.

Rounding out 40 years in which he has made his name synonymous with baseball, this sharp-eyed, pudgy man brought a glimpse of the Texas league when the players took their fighting where they found it, off or on the field.

"Why, the first team I played on," he said, "carried only eleven players and three of them were pitchers. That meant we all played every day and the pitchers had to take their turn at least every third day. And that team—it was Corsicana—set a world record with 27 straight wins."

No Training Camp.

"A training camp!" he shouted. "No. We reported ten days before the season opened and got in a lot of hard work, and when they sold one of us to the big leagues $500 to $1,000 was top money."

Morris has been a player, manager, club owner and league president, and today is business manager of the Shreveport Sports. Once, as league president, he had to step in and umpire a game because the regular umpires were scared to come to the field.

It was in the days when Dallas and Fort Worth made every baseball game a personal matter, did their fighting when opportunity arose and had support from the fans."

President Umpired.

"I was lucky," he grinned. "Paul Wachtel pitched a two-hitter and Fort Worth won 10-0. But I shudder to think what might have happened had it been a 1-0 game. I probably am the only league president who ever had to pinch hit for an umpire."

Morris, who played in that famous agme in 1902 when Corsicana defeated Texarkana 51-3 and Nig Clarke hit eight home runs in eight times at bat, started in baseball with the University of Texas.

It was at the turn of the century and he and the rest of the squad were suspended from athletics for a year for using an ineligible catcher under the name of a substitute.

50 Runs Off Pitcher.

That 1902 game probably was the only one in professional baseball where a pitcher was left in the box all the way although 50 runs were scored on him.

"A new owner of the Texarkana club sent his son down with the orders to Manager Cy Mulkey to let him pitch. Cy, who didn't like it at all, left the boy in and coming by us afto reach inning when we had slugged the cover off the ball he'd say: "Papa said to let him pitch. He's pitching, ain't he."

Morris once sold himself to the St. Louis Cardinals for $1,000 and recalled ruefully that the deal eventually cost $500 from his own pocket.

Bought Fort Worth.

It was in 1908 when he was with Savannah in the South Atlantic league. The next year the Cards sent him back to the minors and he wound up at Knoxville, also in the South Atlantic loop. Knoxville dropped out and he became a free agent, so he bought the Fort Worth club.

"Then, do you know, the Knoxville club assembled and claimed me and I had to pay $500 for my release. Out of the deal I lost $500 because the $1,000 from the Cardinals had gone to the Savannah club which I didn't own."

Played Infield.

During his colorful career—and he was quite an infielder in his day—Morris was with Corsicana, San Antonio, Beaumont, Shreveport, Charleston, S. C., Savannah, Ga., St. Louis, Birmingham, Memphis, Knoxville, Fort Worth, Dallas and Tyler, was promotional director in the Southern division of the minor leagues, president of the East Texas, Cotton States and Evangeline leagues, and from 1915 through 1921 headed the Texas league.

"The game has been good to me," he said. "If I had all the money I've made out of baseball I would be setting pretty. But I sunk too much of it in lead mines and oil wells.

"And," he added, "if the World War had lasted 30 days more I'd have done all right with my lead mine."

Morris in Mine Venture.

Morris had deserted baseball temporarily to become a partner in promotion of a lead and zinc mine for which he and associates paid $90,000.

They were selling ore hand over fist and getting a good price for it when the armistice was sined.

"Shucks," he said, "they didn't even come and get the last orders. We lost about $30,000."

But his eyes were laughing.

Maybe to him 40 years of baseball is worth more than $30,000.

Virginia Middleton To Wed Fort Worth Man September 14

The announcement of the engagement and the approaching marriage of Miss Virginia Middleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Middleton, to William Alvis Landreth of Fort Worth, was made at a lovely tea Saturday afternoon, August 12, from 5 to 7 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Butler, 1522 Sycamore, with Mrs. Butler and her daughter, Mrs. William B Thomas of Dallas as hostesses.

This very attractive home with its array of lovely flowers suited to the occasion, made a perfect setting for this very interesting and important social affair enjoyed by 115 or more friends of the lovely bride-to-be and the charming hostesses.

The reception hall, where the callers were greeted at the door by Mrs. John C. Calhoun and Mrs. Henry Walker during the hours, was adorned with an artistic arrangement of mixed summer flowers in rich autumn tones that was reflected in the lovely console mirror as it rested on the console table.

The living room was especially attractive with varied arrangements of salmon pink gladioli; while yellow and orange marigolds were delegated to the adjoining solarium.

Dining Room Decorations

Most beautiful of all was the dining room in its all-white and silver decorations, the centerpiece of the beautiful polished table having been a large bouquet of white asters, gladioli, carnations and feverfew in a rich silver urn that rested on a round reflector-mirror. At the base of the urn a large, blue satin ribbon bow, with three streamers extending gracefully across the table, revealed the secret of Miss Middleton's approaching marriage in gold letters with "Gin" on one streamer "September 14," on the center one, and, "Bill," on the third.

The massive and elegant buffet held a center decoration of the same white flowers in a low, silver bowl that was flanked by rich silver candelabra holding unlighted white tapers.

Mrs. John C. Calhoun and Mrs. Robert Davidson presided at the table the first hour, serving the iced tea and the delectable loaf sandwiches; and Mrs. T. O. Wills and Mrs. Henry Walker, the second hour. Assisting in the dining room was Miss Vivian Walker. About the table were silver platters of cookies, salted pecans and frosted grapes.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Thomas, Miss Middleton, Mrs. Middleton, Miss Carol McPherson of Longview, and Mrs. Hugo Allen of Alice, both of whom are to be members of the wedding party, Mrs. Horace Butler of Dallas, Miss "Sistie" Lillie, Fort Worth, aunt of the bride-groom-to-be.

Among out-of-town guests calling were Mrs. John L. Murchison of Dallas and Miss Stella Attwood of Ennis.

A number of lovely pre-nuptial parties are being planned for Miss Middleton who is a popular member of the young social circle of the city.

BURFORD

Gasoline company of Louisiana specified that.

Dillard Estes, attorney for Burford, offered in evidence a copy of the Louisiana proration law, a copy of the contract between Burford's company and Pelican, and an order executed by Dr. J. A. Shaw, then director of the minerals division of the Louisiana conservation department permitting the Pelican company to produce 20,000 barrels of oil daily for 60 days. The order was dated March 24, 1936. The order showed the increase was granted on the grounds the company had reasonable market demand for the additional crude.

Also in evidence was a letter to Robert S. Maestri, Louisiana commissioner of conservation, from James O'Connor, assistant attorney general of Louisiana, in which the latter told Maestri an order increasing production from the Pelican's Sexton lease in the Rodessa field was legal. Another order, signed by Maestri and attested by Shaw, reaffirmed the original after showing the original had been questioned.

No Discrimination Shown.

Commenting to the court upon these points, Estes said no discrimination had been shown in increasing the Pelican's allowable because the Pelican showed it had a market demand for oil.

Burford also testified his attorneys had asked the federal tender board No. 1 at Kilgore, Texas, whether oil moved to his East Texas Refinery from the Rodessa field would require federal tenders, but that they had not been able to get an expression from the board. The Louisiana orders permitting production of the oil were filed with the tender board, he said.

Burford then told of the suit his company brought against the tender board to force it to issue orders permitting the oil to move, and Estes read an order entered in the case in the U. S. district court for the eastern district of Texas. The court rules since the tender board admitted it was without official jurisdiction over the oil produced in Louisiana and therefore could not issue tenders, that the Burford company had its relief, and dismissed the suit without prejudice. At that time, Burford testified, there was not a federal tender board in Louisiana, nor is there one now.

TWO OFFICERS AND SEVEN ENLISTED MEN BURNED IN ACCIDENT

BIG ARMY BOMBER CRASHED IN TAKE-OFF AT LANGLEY FIELD ON FRIDAY

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Aug. 11.—(AP)—A plane crew, believed to have included two officers and seven enlisted men, was killed in the crash and burning of a twin-motored bombing plane here this afternoon.

Army post officials said it was not determined immediately whether there were seven or nine men aboard the plane, which crashed during a takeoff for a local training flight. The crash was due apparently to motor trouble.

The plane, with several hundred gallons of gasoline aboard, had attained a height of about 150 feet when it appeared one of the motors failed and the air craft plunged nose first into the ground on the edge of the landing field.

Crews on crash trucks and ambulances could not attempt any rescue of the entrapped men because flames enveloped the wreckage almost instantly.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The war department said today two army officers and seven enlisted men were killed in the crash of an army bombing plane at Langley Field, Virginia.

Brigadier General Lelos C. Emmons, cammander of the general headquarters air force, reported all were burned when the plane crashed in taking off.

The plane was a two-motor, Douglas B-18A bomber, one of a general type of which the air corps has more than 200 in service.

The officers were identified as Lieut. Homer M. Mackay of the air corp and Lieut Lee Butner of the air corps reserve.

The enlisted men killed were listed by the army as Technical Sergeant William Morgan, Staff Sergeants Raymond J. Shelley, Everett Kirkpatrick and Howard A. Jauernig, Corporal Pete Bunyk, Private First Class Pete Reale, and Private Roy B. Leopold.

The war department was advised the plane crashed about 1:45 p. m. (EST) (12:45 CST) from a height of about 150 feet. A board of officers was named to determine the cause.

It was the army's worst aircraft tragedy since a heavy loss of life in the successive crashes of two other bi-motor bombers in Illinois and Alabama within a short time of each other several months ago.

NAVAL FLIERS KILLED.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Two navy fliers were reported killed today when their plane crashed during gunnery exercises at the Miramar Landing Field, north of here.

HEALTH, BEAUTY AND POISE

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR PERSONALITY
By VERONICA DENGEL

TURBANS, HOODS, KERCHIEFS

I think the turbans and hoods and kerchiefs that are used for hats this summer are delightful. For sports wear, a hat is a bit of a nuisance, frequently the head band is too tight, or the fabric of the hat keeps the head too warm. On the other hand, to go without a hat entirely for long intervals is none too good for your hair—because too much sun dries it out—and the hair becomes unkept and tangled. And don't you find the wrap-around turbans grand when you have just had a hair set and want to keep it in place during a round of golf.

Then, at the other extreme, when your hair is pretty messy, and you have no time to get it done, and an unexpected invitation comes in, turbans put on so as to cover every bit of hair with the exception of a curl at the front, are attractive and practical. In fact, I rather like the clean line around the face—it's youthful and becoming. Haven't you ever noticed how young and fresh you look with your hair all wrapped up in a towel after your shampoo?

Colored kerchiefs to match or blend with your frock are so easy to adjust and so inexpensive that you can have several. Try this fashion when you are out for a ride or planning a day in the open.

Turbans are just the thing for sports or riding.

Hurled From Berths

Sleeping passengers were hurled from their berths at the crash, while those still up in the observation cars and lounges were toppled like ten-pins.

The horror and the heroism of the night were graphically told by A. C. Munger, Omaha attorney who, riding in one of the rear cars, escaped unhurt.

"Many victims," he related, "were literally torn to pieces, with hands, feet or arms cut off and their bodies otherwise mutilated."

"I had just gone to bed and was lying in my berth awake," he said. "Suddenly there was a violent bump, apparently caused by part of the train leaving the track. This was followed by a succession of bumps and swerving as the cars started piling up in the creek bed.

"As soon as the movement and noise stopped, uninjured persons ran out into the dark and started breaking glass in the car windows to get the living out.

"It was a terribly lonely spot. We had to tear up articles in the cars to build bonfires for light, because the power supply was put out of commission.

An Incredible Sight

"It was an incredible sight to see that big train piled up like matchwood. The steel bridge across which the engine jolted was literally torn to shreds as it was struck by gyrating cars."

Like others of the survivors, Munger paid high tribute to the courage of Thelma Ristvedt of Chicago, stewardess and the only registered nurse aboard, who administered to the injured despite a "terrific blow on the head."

"She was practically out on her feet," said Munger, "but she kept trying to help those worse hurt than herself. Finally, she collapsed on the ground, unable to talk, her face smeared with blood.

"Even then, she tried to indicate what to do until she temporarily lost consciousness."

Munger said "the coolness shown by most of the passengers was remarkable. A number of uninjured men immediately went to work getting other survivors out of the cars. The injured were laid out upon the ground and made as comfortable as possible. Although some of them were in severe pain, and there seemed to be so little we could do for them."

E. F. Hecox, veteran engineer aboard the crack flier, ran and stumbled a mile to the nearest phone to spread the alarm which brought medical aid rushing to the scene.

"As soon as I had the train stopped, I jumped out and ran back," he told Joseph R. Jackson of the Reno Evening Gazette.

"There was no breeze, and the dust had gathered in a great cloud. There were no lights, and I couldn't see a single living person. I could hear the screams and moans of the dying and injured.

"I turned and ran for Harney, which I knew was a little more than a mile away. I must have fallen down 20 times on the way. Then I called all the doctors and nurses I could, telling them to hurry.

"With the Harney section crew I made my way back to the wreck, and we did what we could. It seemed like an eternity before the first relief train got here."

Passengers were warm in their praise of Dr. E. A. Betts, Pennsylavnia State College professor who, though badly bruised himself, worked swiftly and efficiently to save the lives of several who might otherwise have bled to death.

His first word to interviewers, however, was praise for the other passengers.

"Never have I seen a more courageous display of nerve and coolness by the other passengers," he said.

"I spent the night applying tourniquets—30 of them—and helping as much as I could. Every friend I had on the train was instantly killed."

As an anti-climax to the wreck, the dining car of the rescue train caught fire enroute to Reno. Outside of more shock to nervous passengers, no damage resulted.

The man "with both ears off," wanted for questioning about the disaster, was described as 35 years old and weighing 135 pounds.

The last train to use the tracks prior to the crash crossed the bridge shortly after 6 p. m.—only four hours before. Southern Pacific officials said track electric contacts operating blocks signals had not been broke, and there was no warning that anything was wrong with the rails, indicating the person or persons perpetrating the terror had planned deliberately and carefully. Two crowbars found near the scene indicated, officials said, more than one person was involved.

The streamliner was operated by three lines—Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Chicago Northwestern. It was on Southern Pacific tracks at the time of the mishap.

Two Texans—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Marcus of Dallas—were among the injured. Mrs. Marcus suffered injuries to her ribs and back. Her husband's back was wrenched and he also received scratches and abrasions.

Catastrophe Brings Out Number Heroes

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Thelma Ristveldt, comely stewardness and heroine of the Nevada train wreck, might have reached the diner "death car" and perished had she not stopped to bid two passengers a cheery goodnight before going forward to deliver telegrams.

As it was, she was just entering the club car, next the diner, when the accident occurred.

A graduate nurse, the 23-year-old Miss Ristveldt emerged from the wreck bruised and battered, her face swollen, shocked and injured so severely she had to be helped from the relief train here.

Between the time of the first big jolt and the moment she fainted in a swamp at the edge of the river, Miss Ristveldt said she used handkerchiefs as tourniquets to keep passengers from bleeding to death.

"I don't know how I got out of the car," she said. "Somebody must have carried me out."

Dr. M. G. Brigham, only physician among the passengers, left the New England Deaconess Hospital in Boston to see the San Francisco Fair and to ride on the "City of San Francisco" to satisfy a life-long interest in railroading."

"I've had my ride on this famous train," he said, "and I'm going to see the fair and I'm glad to be still alive."

Dr. Brigham dismissed his achievements among the shocked and injured with a wave of his hand.

Passengers showered praise upon Edgar Metoyer, Oakland negro, who was barman in the club car. Metoyer waded into the river and was credited with recovering the bodies of several dead and helping rescue a half dozen others.

Suspect Who Cursed Railroad is Sought

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Description of a possible suspect in wrecking the $2,000,000 streamlined train, "City of San Francisco," was furnished police by two young Michigan motorists.

Inspectors Sidney DuBose and William Merrick said the men, whose names were withheld, reuated that early Saturday they overheard a drunken railroad man at Wells, Nev., say:

"The railroad never gave me a break. I've worked as a railroad man since the war, but I never got anything."

The man then showed his feeling by touching a match to his cap and throwing the blazing cap at a Chinese in the restaurant. He sat at a table and talked until another railroad man told him to "keep your mouth shut."

The inspectors were told the man had dark hair, weighed about 160 pounds, and wore blue denm.

One of the youths told San Francisco police:

"He was tough, and he was deeply moved by feelings."

Wells is a small railroad town in Eastern Nevada, east of Elko, and about 85 miles from the scene of the wreck.

The Michigan men's report was given additional credence by authorities after Southern Pacific reported that W. K. Fraed, box 80, Alta Loma, Calif., told them that yesterday, a number of hours after the wreck, he noticed a man answering the description of the Welles Nev., man at Hazen, Nev., a railroad stop 50 miles east of Reno.

Fraed said this man was drunk and was cursing the railroad.

San Francisco officers were convinced he was the same person observed by the Michigan men. They said it would have been easily possible for him to have been at the wreck scene.

SHUTDOWN

are low on oil, and that they now are trying to break the price and rob Texas. The chief question is whether a few people in New York can use proration for their own profit and to wreck an industry.

"This price cut, if allowed to become general, would affect everyone in Texas. It would take $100,000,000 a year from the state's producers and substantially diminish the state's income from its public school and university lands."

Senator Joe L. Hill of Henderson, whose district embraces most of the famed East Texas field, conferred with the commissioners shortly before they announced their decision. He said he might make a statement later.

"This 15-day shutdown order," Chairman Smith said, "has the effect of preserving the collateral of all oil operators who owe the banks money. The commission agreed to it unanimously. We originally considered a 30-day closing but concluded that some producers might have difficulty with their creditors if we made the period too long."

No Threats of Court Attack.

All three commissioners stated they had heard no threats of a court attack on the shutdown decree. Sadler said 95 per cent of the oil men who had communicated with him were for a long closing and Smith added the figure was 90 per cent in his case.

"Some of the big integrated companies are trying to put on a three-way squeeze," Thompson explained. They escaped taxes during the long regular session of the legislature. They have gone into federal court and gained a decision under which they hope to increase their East Texas production. Now they want to cut the price, in which event they could fill their empty storage with greater production of their own and with oil bought from others at a ruinously low price."

Commissioners said they did not yet know exactly how many wells would be excepted from the closing. Each operator who feels his well deserves an exemption must apply to the commission's field offices, they said, and each case will stand on its own merits.

Thompson stated the Rodessa field would be shut down if Louisiana closed its segment of the pool but otherwise it probably would remain open.

100,000 Oil Workers.

Approximately 100,000 persons are employed in the producing end of the industry in Texas but members of the commission agreed there should be no unemployment as a result of the order.

"I can conceive of nobody discharging any employes," Thompson stated. Wells will have to be cared for just as if they were being produced and many other needful things can be done."

Smith said the order "will not affect labor," adding if any persons were laid off work temporarily it doubtless would be at full pay.

"It was the only thing to do in view of the situation," Thompson asserted.

Smith declared the order would be extended if conditions necessitated and that it was with this understanding the shutdown had been ordered.

"We have an understanding the order will be extended after 15 days if necessary," he said. "However, I think it will not be necessary."

Co-operation Asked

He asked public understanding and co-operation with the commission.

Thompson planned to leave for Oklahoma City this afternoon for the compact meeting. En route tonight he will deliver a radio address (Texas State Network, 7:30 p. m.) explaining the situation.

A deluge of telegrams and telephone calls had descended on commission officers, and Smith said at least 98 per cent expressed favor for the shutdown. The telegrams were from within Texas and beyond.

"There were only a few dissenting voices," Smith said.

Sadler pointed out that a 15-day holiday would enable the commission "to assemble data which will be necessary to write probable new proration orders under court decisions." The East Texas proration formula possibly will have to be revised as a consequence of a three-judge federal court decision in the Humble case.

Expect to Lose No Markets.

All commissioners voiced the opinion Texas would lose no oil markets to other states as a consequence of its drastic action. Smith had said yesterday this state had sufficient oil in storage "to supply the trade for 30 days."

Thompson termed the present crisis "the armageddon of oil proration."

"The question is," he asserted, "whether proration can be used as the tool of monopoly. The commission says no."

Charging that "a few people in New York" were responsible for the crude oil price cut, Thompson stated that no corresponding cut in gasoline prices was in prospect.

The commission said Governor W. Lee O'Daniel had written him a letter stating that the "power of the governor's office would be behind us in this effort."

Thompson was referring to the letter in which O'Daniel disagreed with the commissioner as to the need for a special legislative session and suggested that the commission had ample authority to deal with oil problems.

Believe Other States Should Act

Commissioners said the few protests were based on the thought other oil producing states should co-operate in curbing national production and that Texas should not act except with other states.

The Texas producing industry has been intensely agitated since the first price cut and early waves of protest mounted as other price slashes became effective.

At Palacios on the gulf coast training with national guard troops, Thompson sped to Austin Saturday and began militant opposition to the reductions, unleashing a blistering attack on the price cutters.

After appealing to Governor O'Daniel for a special legislative session and calling the compact meeting, Thompson and Sadler went to Houston, a copy of the shutdown order in their pockets, in an effort to find Chairman Smith, who they thought had gone there for the week-end.

Unable to find Smith, who was in Galveston, Thompson and Sadler returned to Austin, Smith following Sunday.

Governor O'Daniel said nothing about the situation in his regular Sunday morning address and at 11:30 a. m. had not commented on the shutdown order.

State's Official Answer.

The shut-in of some 80,000 Texas wells would be this state's official answer to attempts of some of the larger purchasing companies to cut the price of oil about 20 per cent Members of the commission took the position a temporary loss of production in the state which supplies nearly 40 per cent of the nation's oil would be preferable to lower prices extending over many months.

Commissioners voiced the hope other oil-producing states would co-operate. Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, who is chairman of the interstate oil compact commission, had called a meeting of that body in Oklahoma City tomorrow to consider concerted action by oil states. Thompson will discuss the oil crisis in a radio talk at 7:30 p. m. over a statewide network (Texas State.)

Thompson, who favored a 30, day closing, had returned from Palacios where the National Guard is holding its summer encampment. He is colonel in the Guard. Sadler and Commission Chairman Lon A. Smith returned yesterday from Houston and Galveston, respectively.

Would Boost Oil Tax.

Thompson Saturday wrote a letter to Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel urging a special session of the Texas legislature to boost the state production tax on oil more than 150 per cent in retaliation for the price action of several large purchasing companies.

O'Daniel declined to call the session, explaining the legislature had been in regular session 163 days and did not boost the levy. He omitted mention of the oil crisis in his regular radio talk yesterday.

The Sinclair Company on Wednesday lowered its posted price for crude purchases. The Humble Company followed suit Friday and several other purchasers took similar action before the end of the week. A number of major purchasing concerns, however, still had not cut prices.

Thompson stated the price cut, if permitted to sand, would cost Texas producers $100,000,000 a year. Both he and Commission Chairman Smith said independent operators all over the state had telephoned their approval of the proposed holiday.

The shut-in probably would apply to all Texas wells except those in the Tri-State Rodessa field and those which would go to water if forced to halt production. Commission engineers estimated the output of wells which would be excepted at 120,000 barrels daily. Current Texas oil production, after deducting for Saturday and Sunday shutdowns, is approximately 1,400,000 barrels per day.

Arkansas to Wait.

EL DORADO, Ark., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Alex M. Crowell, of the Arkansas Oil and Gas Commission said today no definite action toward the shutdown of wells in Arkansas would be taken until after the oil compact meeting at Oklahoma City Tuesday.

"I asked the Texas Railroad Commission for a copy of its shutdown order," Mr. Crowell said, "to be prepared to issue a similar one if a shutdown in Arkansas wells is

MATERIALS BEING PLACED FOR WORK ON HOGAN BRIDGE

Work has not started on the repairing and reconstruction of the Hogan bridge span at Chambers creek crossing on the Corsicana-Roane-Shatfield lateral road, but materials have been placed on the site. This announcement was made Monday by County Commissioner C. M. Fitzgerald of ice while in Corsicana.

The bridge is on the dividing line between road precincts 1 and 2 and the cost of the repairs and improvements is being cared for from the road and bridge fund of the two precincts.

The old bridge has been in bad condition for some time. The old one-way crossing will be a two-way structure when the proposed improvements are completed.

Nothing Heard From Fliers As Deadline Passed

DUBLIN, Ang. 12.—(AP)—Ireland remained without word of the American fliers, Alex Loeb and Dick Decker, as the deadline for their fuel supply was reached this afternoon.

It was estimated their fuel could only last to 4 p. m. (10 a. m. EST), (9 CTS) on their attempt to fly from St. Peter's, Nova Scotia, to Ireland, in a monoplane like Col. Charles A. Lindbergh used to fly to Paris 12 years ago.

They took off at 9:04 a. m. EST yesterday with gasoline for an estimated 25 hours of flying but with hopes of reaching Ireland nonstop in 22 hours.

The weather generally was favorable on this side with westerly winds prevailing and visibility excellent off the Irish coast, where Coast Guard stations kept a close lookout.

At Baldonnel airport, where Douglas ("Wrong Way") Corrigan landed in his solo flight over the Atlantic, an official reported:

"The weather still is favorable but no ships have reported sighting the plane."

INTERESTING ITEMS REPORTED FROM NAVARRO UNITS TEXAS NATIONAL GUARD ENCAMPMENT

By 1st Lt. PAUL A. DRESSER

CAMP HULEN, PALACIOS, Aug. 14.—Battery "D" 132nd Field Artillery now on their annual field training encampment at Camp Hulen, near Palacios, has the distinction of always having one of the best enlisted men's mess in their regiment and a great deal of the credit for this honor is due to the efficiency of Mess Sergeant M. K. Riley, who has served in this capacity for the 18 years that Battery "D" has been in the Texas National Guard. It is his responsibility to order the proper kinds and amounts of foods and supervise the preparation and correct serving. He must also be certain to stay within his allowance and yet feed the men good balanced meals as one of the most important tasks in the army is feeding the men, as a well fed group of men are contented and will work much harder and do the details assigned them.

Although this task is important, that of the cook is even more so, because if food is not properly cooked it will not be eaten and only wasted and the men will still not be contented even though a unlimited amount of food is available. Private Ollie Murphy, who is first cook, has been with the organization 13 years and is a very fine cook. Private Jessie Hagler, second cook, who has been with the Battery 2 years, is an experienced cook and is rapidly learning Murphy's efficient methods. Jim Hodges, who has worked in the kitchen five years is head K. P. First Lieutenant Paul Dresser is mess officer and supervises the work, and inspects kitchen for cleanliness.

Government Allowance.

The government after years of study have developed a ration (certain amounts of food issued to each man per day) and a money allowance figured according to the prices of the food stuffs in the area where troops are. This year the organization is allowed 52.7 cents per day to feed a man. For the first 10 days of the Camp Battery "D" has been allowed $474.30 to feed the 60 men from Corsicana and 30 men from 2nd Battalion Headquarters Battery at Italy, who are messing with the Corsicana organization. Practically all types of foods are available for issue, such as eggs, ham, bacon, beef, chicken, rice, lettuce, fresh tomatoes, ice cream, potatoes, cereals, various kinds of dried beans, macaroni, spaghetti, cheese, lemons, oranges, pineapple, pears, peaches, corn, string beans, cabbage, dried fruit, jellies, syrups, butter, bread, etc.

Balanced meals are planned in advance and actually served as planned. Menus must be posted each day. Officers inspect these daily to see that what is planned is served. A typical day's menu that was served Friday, August 11th, follows:

Breakfast: Bacon and eggs, post toasties, butter, syrup, bread, coffee.

Dinner: Brown roast beef, Italian spaghetti, cream potatoes, lettuce and tomato salad, peach pie, bread and ice tea.

Supper: Maccaroni and cheese, potato salad, cream peas, stewed apples, bread, lemonade.

A soldier's life isn't so hard after all if such meals are as well cooked as First Cook Murphy can turn out and many of the hard tasks and long duty periods are soon forgotten.

In appreciation of the fine cooperation of the sergeants of Battery "D", 152nd Field Artillery, First Sergeant Albert Kirkland entertained with a flounder supper at the popular Pier Cafe in Palacios. Non-commissioned officers attending were Sergeants Greely Aston, Bruce Cagle, Harold Hardgrave, Lin Hickey, Remus Jones, Pete McCain. Officers of the local battery say that this is the best camp that they have paricipated in in he past few years; that the men are exceptionally well behaved; that they work hard at all times and do not gripe if they happen to draw some extra details when others are off duty and that a great deal of the credit for this attitude of the battery is because of the complete co-operation and help of the non-commissioned officers. Spiced shrimp were served with the flounder and each sergeant had to be taught that it was necessary to shell the shrimp before eating after Sergeants McCain, Cagle, and Jones found that it was very difficult eating them before shelling.

Swimming in the bay at the pier of the 36th Division is a most popular sport at Camp Hulen this year. Usually the jelly-fish are abundant, but this year the bay is comparatively clear of them and large numbers of members of the command swim there each afternoon. The young "stow-a-ways" have been enjoying it probably more than anyone else, as this is the first time that Henry Ellis Haley, Kenneth Aston, and Dan McBroom have been on the coast. All swimming is under the supervision of registered life guards and military police are also on duty.

Members of Battery "D" finished firing the automatic rifle for record and all members of the team finished above the average of the regiment. Fifty-four members of the regiment fired the course and out of a possible score of 300, Private Arthur Melton finished in sixth place with a score of 201 and Sergeant Remus Jones finished in eighth place with a 201 score. Scores of other members of "Battery "D" are: Private Freddy York 118, Private Elbert Cox 97, and Private Nolan Hickey 82.

Members of Regimental Headquarters Battery scored as follows: Staff Sergeant Clifton Miller 139, Corporal William Clowe 125, Private William Donnelly 124, Private Rodney Van Sweden 59, and Private Milton Jackson 56.

Private Leonard Thompson, Battery "E" Kerens finished third with a score of 220, Private Joe Woods finished fourth with a 217 score, and Private John Mayo finished seventh with a 200 average. Scores of other members of the Kerens unit are: Private Robert Childers 135, Private Joe Baker 121, and Private James Webb 64.

High score for the shoot was made by Private Henry Hall, Battery F, of Marshall with a 253 score.

Captain Festus Pierce entertained the sergeants of his organization at the Pier Cafe with a flounder supper Thursday, August 10th, in appreciation for the fine cooperation manifested by his non-commissioned officers. Sergeants attending the feed were Master Sergeant Floyd Hardy, First Sergeant Curtis Willmontte, Staff Sergeants James Foster, Clifton Miller and Almer White, and Sergeants Dennis Donoho, Philip Gibson, Darwin Hales, William Mims, Roland Pollard.

The color guard of Regimental Headquarters Battery of Corsicana received a distinct compliment from Captain Lem Boren, retired regular army captain and who was the regular army regimental instructor for the 132nd F. A. from 1923 to 1927, when he observed the manner in which Staff Sergeants Clifton Miller and Almer White and Corporals Leo York and Hal Bookout handled the colors at retreat. He stated that he had been in active service for more than thirty years and had served many years attached as instructor to national guard units, but that the two Headquarters color bearers and two color guards handled their job better than he had ever observed any such group execute their duties. It is the duty of these four Corsicana men to put out the colors at revellie and to furl the colors at rereat.

The annual division field inspection was held at Camp Hulen Friday afternoon, August 11th, with Major General Birkhead, 36th division commander making the inspection. He complimented Battery "D," Corsicana national guard, on the condition of the equipment, neat display, and training of the men. Trucks were prepared for inspection and tools layed out. All guns and equipment were properly displayed and members of the battery pitched their shelter (pup) tents and laid out their clothes, shaving equipment, and other personal items. Everything was in excellent condition due to the hard work put in by members of the battery and the compliment paid the members was well deserved and appreciated.

Friday afternoon every man felt that he had done a full days duty after the four-hour ordeal of preparing and standing the field inspection, but they soon forgot this work when they were mustered for pay immediately after retreat formation. The 59 enlisted men and three officers from Battery "D" will draw $1501:80; the 49 men and 2 officers of Headquarters Battery will draw $1,344.83; and the 51 men and 4 officers from Battery "E," Kerens, will draw $1,500.71 for the 15 days training period, making a total of $4,347.34 that the three Navarro county units will receive. That long awaited and only desirable bugle call that will notify the men that their unit commanders have received the cash from the finance officer and are ready to pay will be sounded next Thursday.

Private Emery Holloway, Battery "D" man, reported to a board of officers to take an examination for the purpose of attending a three months West Point preparatory school to be held at Camp Bullis this fall. Those making the highest grades from the national guard units will be recommended for the school and those wishing to attend may do so by paying 50c for rations. Other expenses are cared for by the government. Six of these men will be picked and sent to West Point for training as officers in the regular army. Private Holloway made a very creditable showing and is expecting to receive his orders to attend the school. Official announcement of the successful students will be made in September.

Sergeant Darwin Hales of Regimental Headquarters went on duty Saturday evening with a composite Regimental Guard as Sergeant of the Guard and Private Allan M. Westbrook a member of the guard. Selection of Hales as sergeant of the guard was a compliment of his ability as usually the guard has its hardest duty on this week-end and all men placed on the guard are selected for their ability to handle difficult situations.
